«Business relocation: options and opportunities»

Present-day reality is forcing Russian business to look for innovative solutions to maintain its business operations in Russia and abroad. Many companies, especially in IT and International trade segments, have faced newly built artificial burdens that make their commercial activities technically impossible. Current conditions are pushing the business affected by sanctions to redomiciliation or international restructuration to keep its business contacts, commercial operations, technological collaboration and long-established supply chains. Business relocation procedures have a number of aspects that companies should take into consideration to make transition safe and easy for their business processes. Relocation support service can help you to tackle all the challenges in complex, foremost legal, financial and tax aspects.
